You have bought lots of products and maybe you think you are addictive to buying online. There is nothing wrong with buying different products, but if you never do anything with your purchases then you really do have a problem.

Stop for a moment, and think about why you are online and buying all the latest products and fads. Do you want to make money online? That might seem an obvious question but for many people they spend more money than they earn. And yet if you analyze their habits you will see that they do very little to even try an extra $50 per week.

The biggest question is how you can earn money from the products you have bought. The answer will depend on the products you have bought and the rights that you have. But there is always something you can do from these products, and each one can potentially give you money directly into your PayPal account.

Yes, you can earn money as an affiliate of other people's products, but you will normally have to wait to be paid for those. But when you buy a product with rights it is wasted money if you never do anything with them.

Which would you prefer, being able to sell a product on behalf of another person and then have to wait for the commission to be paid into your account? Or would it be better to sell the products you have bought and see the money paid instantly into your account? Instant money is always better, and now you need to know what to do to get this money.

Now you might need to organize your hard disk. One problem that many people have is that they don't know what is on their hard disk. I don't know about you but I find it hard to remember all the purchases made, and so I have no idea what is on my hard disk. The solution to this is to organize the disk in the best way for me.

In MyDocuments I have lots of different folders. I tend to make one for each of my websites, and then any purchases made will go into the relevant folder. Now I might make a new folder for a topic, and then within that have a folder for different rights.

If I want to know what I have on diet, I check the website folder, and inside I find the files for resell rights, master reseller rights and PLR. Simple, yet effective and it works for me. Also you could also set up an excel file which would have all the relevant information. The name of the product, the rights to the products, the cost, and any other information that you find is relevant for you. Again you can sort your excel file to suit yourself. It might be you want it alphabetical, or by topic, or by rights. This is simple to do and one that would help you know what you have on your hard disk.

Let's us start to analyze the products and see what you can do with them. You might find you have enough products to give you a large income for a very long time.
